

This Summer - Join FutureShock!

For four hours a day over the course of 2 weeks (July 18 - July 27), you'll play a series of AI-based mini games that help you build something unique based on your interests and what excites you.

We'll both imagine possibilities for the world of the future and consider our own futures and how our strengths, skills, and interests can guide us in a world where there are always new opportunities and challenges.

The only things you need to bring to this experience are your own experiences, curiosity, and a willingness to explore.

We're a team of designers, hackers, and knitters who build transformative experiences using emerging technology. We designed these games to overcome some of the biggest obstacles in making cool, interesting things that we care about.

Our games focus on:

- Identifying your strengths, skills, & interests
- Generating interesting ideas
- Getting started on projects
- Building momentum on your projects
- Getting unstuck
- Giving & receiving feedback you can elevate to the next level

Every day, we'll spend half the time playing games, and half the time working on projects.

A day in the life of FutureShock...

10am - Show up and hang with friends. You might talk about a project you're working on or catch-up on how the Knicks blew it against the Heat.

10:30am - 12pm - You're 3 days into FutureShock. Today, the group is playing a game where you design & build parts of a city in 90 mins. You work with a partner to create something that makes a futuristic city more livable, but you have to hustle for resources and figure out how to make the most of what you have. At the end, you see what everyone else has made and vote on who was most creative, most concrete, and most clever.

12pm - Eat lunch (provided), hang out, and share some laughs about the game you just played..

12:30pm - 1:45pm - Dig into your project: look at how to apply the hustle of the game to getting unstuck in your own project where you're making comic books using generative AI art, come up with a new goal for the day, and get to work in Midjourney creating new images while your partner starts writing a new script.

2pm - Close out for the day, posting what you did today on the updates board.
